Re: Reformatted Quarterly Financial Data Supplement

Citi announced its new corporate organizational structure in March 2008. As further discussed during Citi's Investor and Analyst Day, the company is now organized into five distinct product platforms – Global Cards, Consumer Banking, Securities and Banking, Transaction Services and Global Wealth Management – and four regions – North America (including the U.S., Canada and Puerto Rico); Europe, Middle East and Africa; Latin America (including Mexico); and Asia (including Japan).

Citi's second quarter 2008 financial results will reflect these changes. The reformatted Quarterly Financial Data Supplement and a guide to the new disclosure which highlights the key changes are now posted on Citi's Investor Relations website at www.citigroup.com/citigroup/fin/index.htm.

The metrics and drivers included in this supplement are provided to better enable you to track the company's progress against the strategy outlined on Citi's Investor and Analyst Day. The supplement does not currently include an allocation of GAAP equity by segment, but we are working to provide this metric in the future.
