Trade credit insurance protects a company's commercial accounts receivables against catastrophic losses resulting from insolvency or "non/slow-payment" by its buyers and from political events that obstruct payment.

Citi's Trade University is a monthly series of thoughtful, informative Webinars focused on the critical global trade trends and issues that impact your business.

This month, learn how to use trade credit insurance as a tool to mitigate risk, expand sales and maximize liquidity.

Join Citi trade banker, Charles Grimes and guest professor, Buddy Baker from Atradius, the second largest trade credit insurer in the world, to discuss how exporters can utilize this coverage to enhance borrowing capacity and expand sales while optimizing financial metrics. The "professors" will provide an introduction to trade credit insurance, insights on the "value" and also detail obligations of the insured, pricing variables and current market capacity.

Coming Soon...

Citi's Trade University has an upcoming Webinar on supply chain management. This session will be focused on retail sector-specific issues and will be a joint webinar with World Trade magazine, featuring Neil Shister, Editorial Director, as moderator.

Registration is limited for this June 21st session; please take a moment to get your name on the list!
